

Joanna Blackburn, Partner, London

Joanna coaches business leaders to help them evolve and thrive in complex or transitional moments in their careers, providing a trusted partner to support them in developing and adapting as leaders.

Her practice is rooted in her experience of building a highly successful legal career, where she is considered a leader in her field. Throughout her time in law, she has provided trusted counsel to individuals and organisations on employment-related matters. Her ability to listen, support, and find solutions to complex problems translates from her legal practice into her coaching.

Joanna takes a holistic approach to working with her clients to

- build a deep understanding of individual purpose, motivations and goals;
- provide space to reflect, and to turn reflection into actions;
- provide the understanding, skills and tools needed to navigate complexity and create clarity; and
- deliver practical, sustainable change and tangible results.

Trained by specialists in global leadership development and coaching, Meyler Campbell, Joanna works in person in London or via Teams anywhere in the world.
